PART III

RESPONSE TO AMENDMENTS

1. This action is responsive to communication filed on February 11, 2003. This amendment has been entered and carefully considered. Claims 1-39 are again presented for examination.

2. The rejection of claims 1-39 in the Office Action mailed November 06, 2002 (paper # 4) is respectfully maintained and reiterated below for Applicant's convenience.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

4. Claims 1-24 and 30-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Whitting et al. (USPN: 5,778,395); hereinafter Whitting;

After close analysis, the current invention is directed toward apparatus and method for partially duplicating backup-data stored in the one backup storage medium to another storage medium wherein numerous references can be used as prior arts; as per claims 1, 7, 13, 20, 30-31, 36, 37 and 38; Whiting discloses the invention as claimed including copying only a subset of the backup data onto at least one computer-readable duplicate backup storage medium as duplicate backup data so that the duplicate backup storage medium is not an exact duplicate of the at least one backup storage medium is being equivalently taught by Whiting as after the initial backup on a particular volume (disk space), ONLY those files which have changed since the previous backup are actually read from the volume and stored on the backup storage (emphasis added, e.g. see abstract, column 5, lines 7 et seq.);

As per claims 2-3, 8-9; 14-16; Whiting discloses copying a subset of the plurality of work items onto the duplicate backup storage medium having different properties as only those files/data which have changed since the previous backup are actually read from the volume and stored on the backup storage means of disk spaces of different network file server which is known to have different properties (e.g. see abstract, column 5, lines 20 et seq.; column 6, lines 20 et seq.);

As per claims 4, 10, 17; copying the subset of the backup data onto at least one duplicate backup storage medium of a different type than the at least one backup storage medium (e.g. see column 6, lines 20 et seq.);

Art Unit: 2186

As per claims 5, 11, 18; storing in a logical duplication database a record indicating that the subset of the backup data copied which has been copied to the at least one duplicate backup storage medium (e.g. see column 8, lines 8 et seq.);

As per claims 6, 12, 19; Whiting discloses wherein the at least one backup storage medium comprises a first backup storage medium including incremental backup data for at least one data item ... as being equivalent to the concept of delta computation wherein differences between file versions are computed so that only the changes to the file need to be written on the backup storage means; noting that Whiting discloses the backup process creates two files containing information about each backup set wherein these files could be combined into a single file (e.g. see column 5, lines 20 et seq.; column 6, lines 25 et seq.; column 8, lines 42 et seq.);

As per claims 21, 32; Whiting discloses wherein the first work item is stored on a single backup storage medium, wherein the backup data further includes a second work item stored in the single backup storage medium, and wherein the method includes a step of not duplicating the second work item onto the duplicate backup medium is equivalently taught as ONLY those files which have changed since the previous backup are actually read from the volume and stored on the backup storage (e.g. see abstract, column 5, lines 7 et seq.);

Art Unit: 2186

As per claims 22, 33; Whiting discloses that backup data being stored on the backup storage means of disk spaces of different network file server which is known to have different properties (e.g. see abstract, column 5, lines 20 et seq.; column 6, lines 20 et seq.);

As per claims 23, 34; Whiting discloses storing in a logical duplication database a record indicating that the first work item has been copied to the at least one duplicate backup storage means (e.g. see column 8, lines 8 et seq.);

As per claims 24, 35; Whiting disclose that 32 bit modification time is written and including both the time and date when the file was last modified, Whiting further discloses that in more advance system, several other time values could be added such as last access time, creation time, or expiration time being claimed in the current invention (e.g. see column 10, lines 38 et seq.);

Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 25-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Whiting et al. (USPN: 5,778,395); hereinafter Whiting;

As per claims 25-29; Whiting discloses the invention as claimed, detailed above with respect to claims 20-24; Whiting however does not particularly disclose a computer-readable medium having of instructions to carry out the steps of claims 20-24 to be implemented on a computer as being claimed in claims 25-29. However, one of ordinary skill in the art would have recognized that computer readable medium (i.e., floppy, cd-rom, etc.) carrying computer-executable instructions for implementing a method, because it would facilitate the transporting and installing of the method on other systems, is generally well-known in the art. For example, a copy of the Microsoft Windows operating system can be found on a cd-rom from which Windows can be installed onto other systems, which is a lot easier than running a long cable or hand typing the software onto another system. The examiner takes Official Notice of this teaching. Therefore, it would have been obvious to put Whiting's program on a computer readable medium, because it would facilitate the transporting, installing and implementing of Whiting's program on other systems.

7. As per remark, Applicant's counsel contended that Whitting does not teach duplicating the backup data onto a duplicate backup storage medium as being recited in different group of claims 1-6, 7-12, 13-19, 20-24, 25-29, 30-35, 36, 37 and 38-39.

Examiner disagree and respectfully submit that the concept of duplicating the backup data onto a duplicate backup storage medium is taught by Whitting as detailed previously; for example, again, Whitting teaches that after the initial (first) backup on the disk space, subset of backup data which have modified since the previous backup are actually read from the volume and stored on the backup storage (e.g. see column 5, lines 7 et seq.; abstract).

8. Applicant's arguments filed February 11, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive.

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 C.F.R. § 1.136(a).
